THE FORUM

CEP, in partnership with the Ovens Cluster, are delighted to announce that Sir John Jones will be coming to the Ovens Valley in North East Victoria to facilitate a one day workshop for education leaders, educators, support staff and interested people.

Sir Johns forums will focus on the theme:

'The Magic-Weaving Business - finding the heart and soul of teaching and learning.'

Participants will be reminded of the tremendous power they have to transform lives and also explore how their role will have to adapt to a rapidly changing world - indeed one that does not yet exist.

Change is mandatory but growth is optional. John Dewey said:

"if we teach our children today the way we taught them yesterday then we will deprive them of their tomorrow."

While exploring some new thinking around free learning, growth mindsets, school in the cloud and expeditionary learning, Sir John will underpin his message with a reminder that while children will forget most of what we make them think they will never forget how we made them feel.'

His inspirational, engaging, and compelling reflections, learnings and stories will have you laughing, crying, challenged, and most importantly inspired to make a difference for the children and young people within your education communities.

So, bring your team, or your whole staff, to this outstanding and highly engaging forum, facilitated by one of the worlds most sort after engaging, and inspiring education leaders and presenters.

"Your philosophy struck a chord with every member of staff in the room. It was thought-provoking, challenging and truly inspirational. Your delivery was exceptional and the standing ovation you received said it all. The emails and letters from the other Heads who were there describe the 'buzz' you have created in every single school. Some described it as 'life-changing' and you have moved some staff on further in one presentation than 30 years attendance at other training events. I am indebted to you for your contribution."

There is a small and select band of educational professionals in the UK who have not only had their achievements recognised in the New Year's Honours List, but who are also able to inspire others with their outstanding knowledge, passion and enthusiasm – Sir John Jones is one.

Knighthed in 2003 for his services to education, Sir John worked most of his professional life in challenging schools across the North West of England, his last post being the head-teacher of a large secondary school in Merseyside. His achievements and reputation for straight talking, leadership and creativity has led to him being invited onto various organizations, panels and think tanks including the National College for School Leadership, the DfES' Leadership Development Unit, the Teacher Development Agency's National Remodeling Unit and visiting posts with both Manchester and Liverpool Universities.

Sir John has also proven himself to be one of the most entertaining, inspiring and sought-after speakers on the global educational stage.
